

Table of FTIC Student Achievement University of Houston-Downtown

Prepared by:

BANNER data provided by:

Statistics in these tables are based on the cohort of 1,196 FTIC students in Fall 2003 at UHD, tracked through thirty-three key academic markers of student progress from Fall 2003 through Fall 2006. The FTIC cohort is disaggregated into various sub-cohorts based on demographic or academic characteristics. All data was collected from BANNER and includes only courses taken at UHD; transfer course grades were not included. Sub-cohorts are arranged into columns and the academic markers are arranged into rows. For example, consider FTIC students who were full time in Fall 2003; data for these students are contained in the second column of the first table. Reading down this column, we can see that $299/933 = 30.1\%$ of these students were still enrolled in Fall 2006. Likewise, we can see that $844/933 = 85.0\%$ of these students enrolled in at least one developmental course during this time period. The report is in the format of a "data square," that is, the academic markers used in the report to measure progress are also transposed and used as academic characteristics to define FTIC sub-cohorts tracked in the report. For instance, not only can we quickly determine the percentage of FTIC students who become college ready (58.5%), but we can in turn determine the percentage of college ready FTIC students who complete the other academic markers defined in the report (see page 9, first column).

Why these "milestone" courses? Because if a student has passed one of the milestone courses, we may deduce the student has made a certain amount of progress toward earning a degree. These courses are primarily at the junior level and were suggested by the academic departments for each major. Here is the mapping of the milestone courses to the majors.
